Cambridge

A BEAUTIFULLY UNIQUE AND INSPIRING CITY

Welcome to Cambridge, where academic excellence, prestigious heritage, city lifestyles and global enterprise combine to create one of the UK's most exciting places to live.

Immersed in remarkable history, Cambridge has been celebrated throughout centuries as the birthplace of magnificent architecture and academic achievement – from King's College founded in 1441 by King Henry VI to groundbreaking discoveries at its world-famous university.

A place of phenomenal thinking; here is where Sir Isaac Newton revolutionised science with his theory of gravity and Charles Darwin developed the theory of evolution, both challenging and changing the way we understand our universe. During its influential history, Cambridge has seen the splitting of the atom, the discovery of human DNA structure, and been home to many brilliant minds such as Professor Stephen Hawking.

This is a city that thrives on initiative and enterprise with a worldwide outlook.

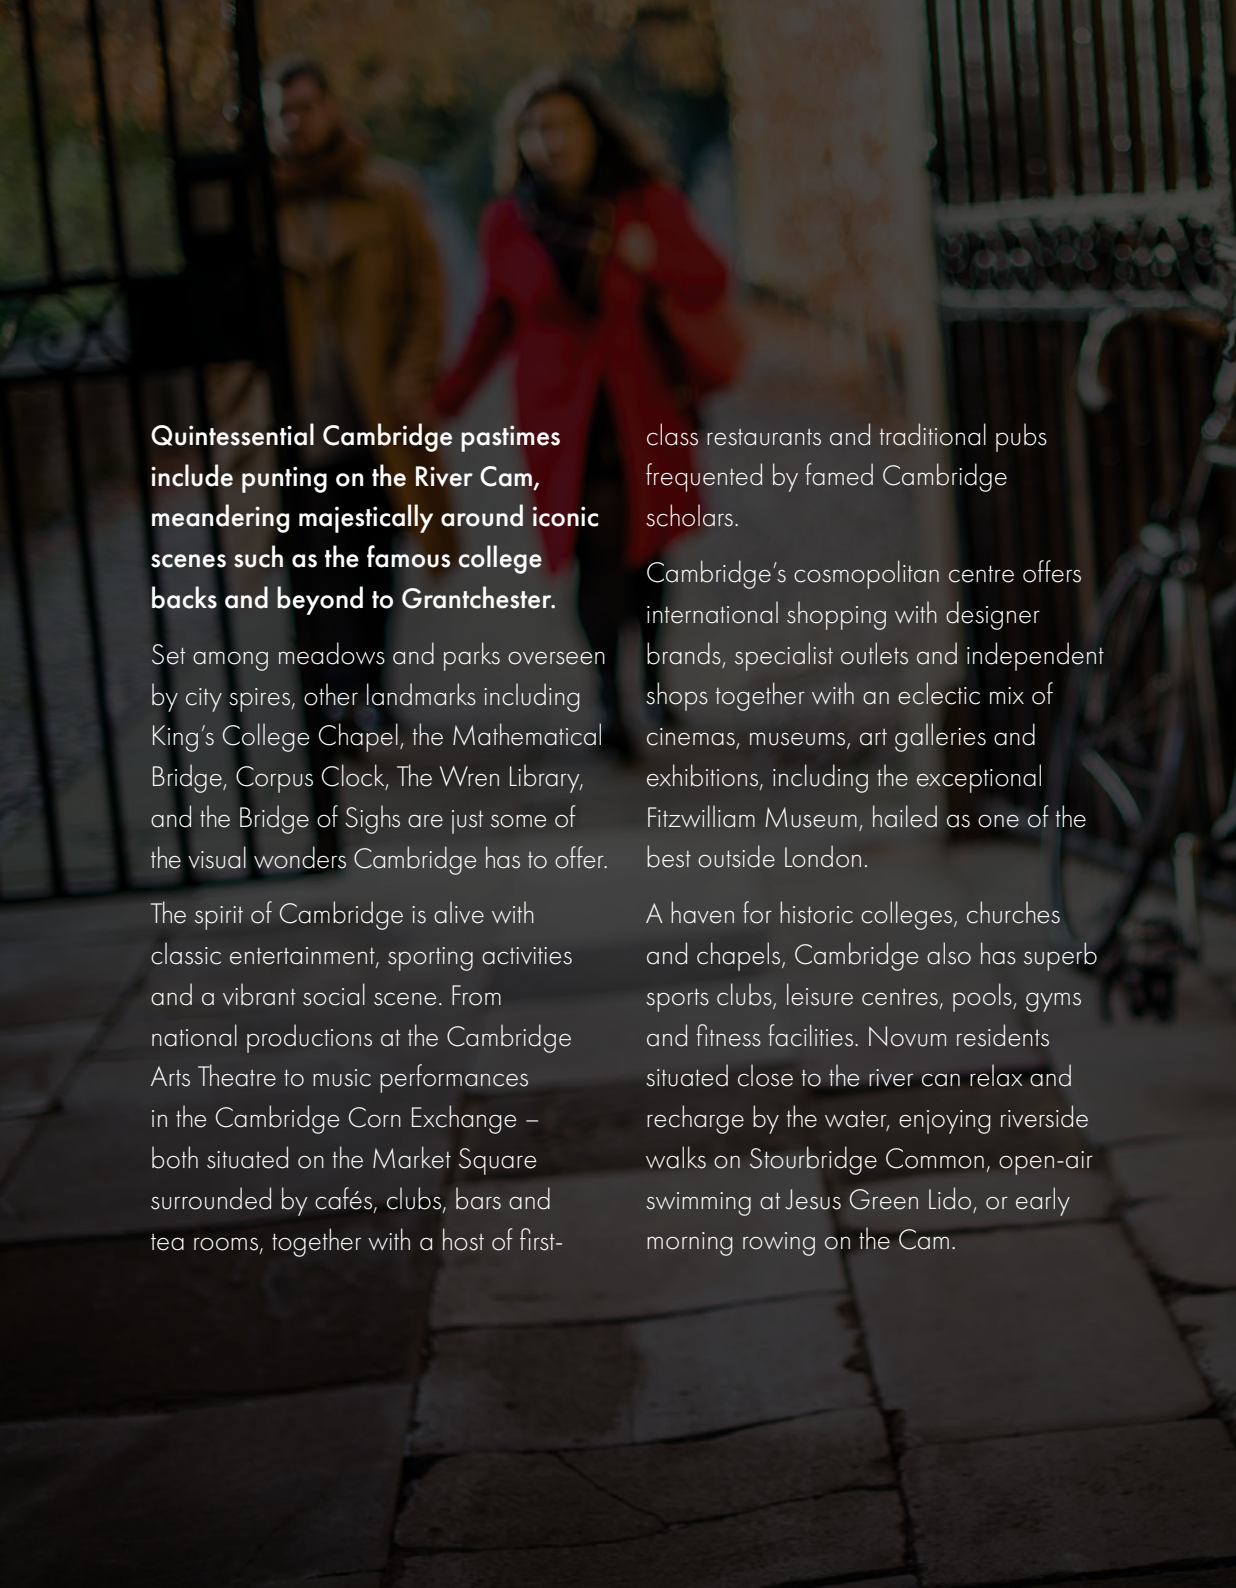

Driven by its legacy for inspired invention, Cambridge is a booming global hub of high technology industries and innovation clusters. Inherently linked to the University with the prestigious Cambridge Science Park attracting companies from small start-ups to multinational subsidiaries and Cambridge Biomedical Campus, headquarters for AstraZeneca, located on the eminent Addenbrooke's Hospital site.

Said to be home to more than 4,300 knowledge-based companies employing some 58,000 people, major names presenting opportunities in Cambridge include Apple, Arm, Microsoft, Amazon and Spotify extending their successful operations in the area known as Silicon Fen.

King's College 12 minute cycle

Quintessential Cambridge pastimes include punting on the River Cam, meandering majestically around iconic scenes such as the famous college backs and beyond to Grantchester.

Set among meadows and parks overseen by city spires, other landmarks including King's College Chapel, the Mathematical Bridge, Corpus Clock, The Wren Library, and the Bridge of Sighs are just some of the visual wonders Cambridge has to offer.

The spirit of Cambridge is alive with classic entertainment, sporting activities and a vibrant social scene. From national productions at the Cambridge Arts Theatre to music performances in the Cambridge Corn Exchange – both situated on the Market Square surrounded by cafés, clubs, bars and tea rooms, together with a host of first-class restaurants and traditional pubs frequented by famed Cambridge scholars.

Cambridge's cosmopolitan centre offers international shopping with designer brands, specialist outlets and independent shops together with an eclectic mix of cinemas, museums, art galleries and exhibitions, including the exceptional Fitzwilliam Museum, hailed as one of the best outside London.

A haven for historic colleges, churches and chapels, Cambridge also has superb sports clubs, leisure centres, pools, gyms and fitness facilities. Novum residents situated close to the river can relax and recharge by the water, enjoying riverside walks on Stourbridge Common, open-air swimming at Jesus Green Lido, or early morning rowing on the Cam.

Location

CHESTERTON AND THE SURROUNDING AREA

Situated in the English county of Cambridgeshire, just 50 miles from London, the city of Cambridge is extremely well connected with transport services providing connections via road and rail links for local, regional, UK and international travel.

Access to the M11 motorway enables swift journeys south past Stansted Airport to London, while the city's A14 connects east and west, linking with the A1 heading north and the M1 south-north motorway.

Cambridge has two railways stations; the newly built Cambridge North conveniently located in Chesterton, and the recently upgraded principal station situated approximately one mile south-east of the city centre. Cambridge trains to London are fast and frequent, with direct lines taking just 45 minutes to the UK's capital and an average of 100 trains per day travelling to King's Cross – accessing London underground links and St Pancras International with Eurostar's gateway to Europe.

London Stansted Airport is located 30 miles south of Cambridge, providing flights to more than 170 destinations across 35 countries. There are regular train services to the airport and the M11 motorway enables a direct drive, with both options taking about 40 minutes travel time.

Also offering excellent transport links, the city's main bus terminus for local routes is situated in central Drummer Street, with national coach services at Parkside on Parker's Piece. Positioned in close proximity to bus and train stations, the Guided Busway combines both road and rail travel connecting Cambridge, St Ives and Huntingdon.
